

A photograph of two archers standing on a rocky hillside. One archer is a woman in a black tank top and a green visor, and the other is a man in a grey t-shirt and a black cap. They are both holding compound bows. In the foreground, there are two 3D targets: a dark brown bear and a white spotted dog. The background shows a grassy field under a cloudy sky.

Archery Wild Trail is a unique archery format designed to entertain the adventurous and not so adventurous archers. The course will reflect the current trend in the US for shots you never see at regular archery tournaments (long and hard) and a range of technical shots - simulated hunting shots, moving targets, challenging shooting positions, mobs & herds - over 50 3D targets on the course!

Some of the shots will be tough, very tough, so bring plenty of arrows. You're going to love the 94yard Cody Weller Sambar Shot. If you miss, have another crack! The good news is though, for the Trail event there is no scoring. That's right, none of the arrows are scored.

On the TRAIL -No broadheads, No scoring. Shoot whatever gear you like. Register online and choose the people you want to shoot with!

Bring a couple of broadheads for the BROADHEAD CHALLENGE after the main event!
